Why We Need Your Help

In 2020, due to the pandemic, our community has been hard-hit. We are seeing an increase in substance abuse, suicide, and domestic violence. People have lost their jobs, they've lost their health insurance, and they've lost loved ones.

In response, we've:

- Continued our mental health services uninterrupted by quickly pivoting to telehealth
- Increased our reach by now serving veterans across the entire state of Texas
- Expanded our Hope for Heroes program to include first responders, recognizing that they, too, are heroes
- Grown our online mental health services with more blog content and virtual workshops and support groups

At Samaritan Center, we are seeing more and more families struggling who can't afford the cost of service. Our funds for subsidizing these services are depleting. We take most health insurance. But our insurance revenues are declining, with more clients losing their insurance. Currently, 38 people are on our waiting list. Financial support from our generous community has never been so important.

"My biggest improvement is having better family relationships, especially with my children."
